The Canadian Parliament.

Топочто, Мау 23, 1851. In the Legislative Assembly, this afternoon, the Hon. Mr. Merritt, the late Commissioner of Public Works, ex-plained the reasons of his retiring from the cabinet—the principal one being the opposition of his collecture to the establishment of a nuw fiscal system. He amounted his intention to propose a complete arrangement in the constitution, on the principle of that of the State of New York, and stated that an expenditure of $66,000 in the removing of obstructions in the St. Lawrence river, would render our public works as productive as those of the State of New York.

NEWS BY THE MAILS.

Our Washington Corresponder WASHINGTON, May 22, 1851. The Mexican Claims-The Anticipated Investigation, &c. The excitement and indignation with regard to the awards by the Board of Claims against Mexico, are in nowise abated, and there is no doubt but what the whole matter will be thoroughly probed by Congress at its next meeting. If some of the developments which will then be made do not make people stare, it will be because they do not regard anything as miraculous in this wonderful age. But it must be understood that I desire to cast no reflections upon the members of the Board; neither do I wish to be considered as their advocate They will be called upon to defend themselves, and it will be time enough to take one side or the other after they are heard. They have been other after they are heard. They have been obliged to decide cases upon the evidence before them; and, although they might well doubt the credibility of some of the stories, yet, when duly authenticated evidence was produced, sworn to by parties in Mexico, and the credibility and respectability of these parties endorsed by the Mexican Minister here, under the seal of the Legation, their doubts had to be laid aside, and the validity of the claim allowed. It is understood, however, that they have kept a minute private journal of all their transactions, and are fully prepared for the most rigid scrutiny into their acts. For their own character, and to satisfy the public, the investigation must be had.

Allusion has been made to the members of Congress who have been engaged as counsel in prosecuting claims before this board. Upon reference to the record, I find that the following comprise all the members who were such when acting as counsel.

Hon. Jesse D. Bright, Senator from Indiana, was engaged in four cases, aggregating 37,133 36.

Hon. Volney E. Howard, member of Congress from Texas, was engaged in two cases, both of which were rejected.

Hon. Andrew Ewing, of Tennessee, one rejected which were rejected.

Hon. Andrew Ewing, of Tennessee, one rejected case.

Hon. Thomas Corwin, whilst U. S. Senator from Ohio, was engaged in two cases, which were allowed—January 9, 1850, and March 12, 1850—aggregating $443.801. Before accepting a seat in the cabinet he made his interest, as counsel in the other cases he had, over to other parties. His nephew, I believe, became interested in seven, three of which were rejected; so that Mr. Corwin's position in the cabinet appears to have had a very poor effect, so far as the success of the claims was concerned. In fact, it affords the best evidence that the charges against him, in this connection, were made without proper information in the premises.

The statement that Mr. Webster was interested in any of the awards is a mistake. Some six or seven years ago he was engaged to draw up an argument in favor of the claim of the Land Company, and this is all the interest he has ever had in any of the claims—an interest which ceased when he drew up the argument.

Several ex-members of Congress were engaged as counsel.—Mr. Rockwell, of Connecticut; Gov. Marcy, and one or two others.

The assertion that complaint has been made that the Secretary of the Treasury is paying fees of the counsel in the awards, and withholding the principal, is also an error. The Secretary has not interfered in the matter. If any such stoppage has been made, it has been done by Comptroller Whittlesey, in accordance with a long standing rule of his office.

Because in the Common Council and Serial—At a meeting of the Common Council on Wednesday night, there was a more lively time than ever, though the proceedings of this body have of late assumed a sufficiently menacing, but withal facetious turn. Whatever may have been the secret origin of these acrimontous attacks by the members on each other, the sore point siways appears to be an all important point, viz: the disposition of the city funds. The Mayor, some time since, vetoed the appropriation of $500 to the widows and orphans of deceased firemen, declaring that the charter gave them no power to make such a grant; and in so doing, like Frankinstein, he has raised a monster that continually disturbs his peace, the movement proving very unpopular, even among his own supporters of the whig party; and many have gone so far as to view this veto rather jealously in juxta position of his Honor's sanction of the liberal vote of $1.300 for the late feed to the members of the Legislature—Alderman Spinola on Wednesday night, caused this wound to bleed afresh, by offering a resolution directing the Mayor to report to the liberal what money had been paid for 'dobbying' certain bills through the Legislature at its last session. This inquisitive proceeding was strenuously resisted, and the Mayor said that no money had been paid but two dollars, and that he had said out of his own pocket. Immediately on the resolution being presented and before its adoption had time to be seconded, a motion to lay it on the table was made and seconded, upon which the Mayor called the ayes and navinode of atfiling inquiry, and declared the Mayor to be out of order.

The Mayor attempted to explain, when he was again called to order by Alderman Spinola. His Honor said conded, upon which the Mayor called the ayes and nays. Alderman Servous protected against this summary mode of stifling inquiry, and declared the Mayor to be out of order.

The Mayor attempted to explain, when he was again called to order by Alderman Spinois. His Honor said the effect of the resolution would be to create a newspaper discussion.

Alderman Servous replied he did not care what the newspapers said. When he shrank from his duty, from fear of the newspapers, he should resign his seat at that Board.

Alderman Servous said it was evidently a case of malpractice by the Mayor, and moved for a special committee to inquire into it, which motion was lost amidal loud laughter. Alderman Smith continued—He did not exactly understand the nature of the resolution; but as it was one for inquiry, he would support it, as he did not wish to see discussion 'gagged.'

The resolution was ultimately laid on the table, but Alderman Spinois was not disposed to "give it up so," and at a subsequent stage of the proceedings brought it up in another form, vix.—That the Comptroller be ordered not to pay any such accounts.

This recolution shared the fate of the first, upon which Alderman Stillwin, shared the fate of the first, upon which Alderman Stillwin, said those papers were bound by their bargain to publish all the proceedings and should not require to be requested to do so.

This diverted the rising feelings of wrath for a short time, and the press, which some, however, ventured its defend, came in for an attack by way of episode—in the course of which Alderman Smith said it might not be altogether agreeable to some gentlemen to have their votes paraded in the papers before their constituents.

The Mayor said they had that evening had two hours and a half proceedings, and the ayes and nays had been taken seven or eight times, and it would be impossible to report all these divisions.

Alderman Syssola—That's false. How have I interrupted you?

The Maron—You have, all the evening. You are out of order now—not in your place.

Alderman Sersola, who was out of his seat at the moment, quickly regained it, and said—I rise to order. HI have interrupted the preceedings, it is the fault of the preciding officer.

The Maron (with a violent blow of his presidential hammer)—Sit down. Order.

The Alderman did so, and immediately rose again, saying—I rise to a point of order. You have charged me with coming here to interrupt the proceedings of the board. That charge is false.

The Maron said, unless some decorum were observed he would leave the chair, and repeated his mandate—Sit down.

The MAYOR Said, times some depended his mandate—Sit down.

A.derman Springla—When you learn to call a member to order, as a gentleman should do, I will.

The Mayor then exclaimed—This meeting is adjourned," and abruptly secated the chair, leaving his saudbox and spectacles behind him. The whole Council rose "in most admired disorder." Adderman Taylor, as President of the Beard, assumed the vacant seat and attempted to stem the terrent; but in vain—the meeting was irretiverably broken up.

Adjourned till Monday next, as some one humbly ventured to suppose; but this question was left in "glorious uncertainty," and addermen, clerks, reporters and all, left the council chamber with loud laughter, asking each other. "What next?"
